In this updated, newly shortened 9-day itinerary we combine delightful, mostly open-country birding in the llanos of the eastern lowlands of Colombia with a taste of some exciting birding in the Andes near Bogota. We'll be covering just a small part of this bird-rich country but should see a terrific cross section of birds while based out of just two sites, so we won't have to change lodgings much, and for the most part our drives should be fairly short except on a couple of travel-and-birding days as we change from one base to the other.

We'll venture first to the llanos, seasonally flooded plains that provide safari-like birding opportunities and a rich diversity of grassland and water birds, as well as some specialties associated with the scattered patches of woodland here. In the llanos there is always something to see on the ground or flying by overhead, making for an exciting birding experience. Here, we will stay in a wonderful family-owned lodge in the midst of a 12,000 hectare ranch. We will be able to see many of the classic inhabitants of the llanos, such as Jabiru, Orinoco Goose and several species of ibis. The Llanos are also known as a wildlife haven, and we'll experience herds of Capybara, troops of Red Howler Monkeys and other mammals; we may also get the chance to see some interesting reptiles.

After our visit to the east, we'll return to Bogota, and from this base we'll make three daytrips to rich birding sites within a 60 to 90 minute drive of the capital. The capital of Colombia is one of the highest elevation cities in Latin America, and gives us access to some wonderful high-elevation birding. The Andes here are home to an amazingly rich bird life, in particular beautiful hummers and tanagers but also numerous other specialties and endemics. These daytrips in the cooler highlands will introduce us to a completely different set of birds than we will have experienced in the llanos.

*Turquoise Dacnis is one of the treasures we will seek at Laguna Pedro Palo in the highlands near Bogota.

We'll travel west of Bogota to visit a forested area featuring a small lake, where we'll search for some of the birds characteristic of the Andean region, such as Bar-crested Antshrike, Rosy Thrush-Tanager, and Gray-throated Warbler. Chicaque National Park lies northeast of Bogota, and protects a portion of the Andean Cloud-forest. Along steep trails, we'll search for specialties of this important habitat, such as Black Inca, Flame-faced Tanager and Moustached Brush-Finch. The reserve is small, but it encompasses an elevational change that allows us to experience several bird communities within a small area. Laguna Pedro Palo is another small lake, where we will look for Black Inca and Turquoise Dacnis.

This itinerary makes for a wonderful sampler of Colombia's bird riches, and our group will be limited to just 6 participants plus guide Jesse Fagan, who designed and inaugurated this tour in 2015. Join us this November!

About the Physical Requirements & Pace: This tour is a mix of roadside birding with one or two longer hikes thrown in for good mix (and birding necessity!). We'll spend much of each day on our feet, and you'll need to be able to walk several miles a day at a good pace. Of course, standing around waiting for birds to show up is also part of the birding game, so bring a collapsible stool if you feel that it will help you. At Chicaque NP, we will have a longer hike down into a steep valley, and you'll need to manage a narrow trail at an incline; it can be slippery in places. The llanos region is flat, and it's hot during the middle of the day. We also have a boat ride while we're in the llanos, so we'll need to get in and out of our watercraft several times. If you are uncertain about whether this tour is a good match for your abilities, please don't hesitate to contact our office; if they cannot directly answer your queries, they will put you in touch with your guide for the tour.

SPECIAL NOTE: This tour will be limited to just 6 participants, which is a wonderfully small group but means, of course, that it may cost more than tours with larger limits. We realize that the price of a tour always matters, but we maintain the small limit for several reasons. First, some of the lodges in the llanos have limited rooming. (The Juan Solito Lodge has seven rooms, so it should be fine with six guests plus the two guides sharing.) Second, comfort in the vehicles matters on any trip, and we would like to preserve an open seat or two in our bus and also reduce crowding when we use multiple 4WD vehicles on several segments of the tour. Third, a smaller group can make our birding easier. When comparing itineraries to similar destinations, keep this in mind if the other tours have limits of 8, 9, or more. We believe a smaller group on this tour is worth a premium if there is one.

About the Birding Areas

The Bogota Region—The capital is located at 8,500 feet (2,500m) on the Sabana de Bogota. We'll spend a day at Tabacal with an early morning departure dropping down ever so slightly towards the Magdalena Valley. We will want to arrive early to take advantage of the dawn activity at this very birdy spot. There will also be a stop at a private house with hummingbird feeders. Possible birds include Bar-crested Antshrike, Rosy Thrush-Tanager, Gray-throated Warbler, Rusty-breasted Antpitta, Gorgeted Woodstar, and Indigo-capped Hummingbird.

Laguna Pedro Palo is where we will be targeting the endemic Turquoise Dacnis and Black Inca, as well as Metallic-green Tanager. We will also spend a full day at Chicaque National Park, located just 30 minutes from Bogota, which holds a very special group of birds. The park has over 20 km of trails for seeking out targets such as Golden-bellied Starfrontlet, Moustached Brush-Finch, Ash-browed Spinetail, Flame-faced Tanager, and another chance at Black Inca.

The Llanos—The Colombian Llanos will provide a complete contrast to the high elevation birding of the Bogota Plateau. We will be birding in wild, open marsh plains with vistas stretching towards the Venezuelan border and for hundreds of kilometers beyond. This wild open mix of grasslands, savannah forest, gallery forest, and seasonally flooded wetlands is home to vast numbers of waterbirds and impressive concentrations of Capybaras. We hope to see the regal, almost ungainly Jabiru and its smaller cousin the Maguari Stork. Scarlet Ibis should be around, and we will also find Buff-necked and Sharp-tailed ibises and Roseate Spoonbills. The localized Orinoco Goose will be a key target, and we may also find Brazilian Teal and several species of whistling ducks. Horned Screamers are also often present. Waders may well be plentiful as it will be migration season and along with a number of wintering and passage North American species, we also hope to see Pied Plover and to get up close and personal with Double-striped Thick-Knee. A selection of raptors will include Aplomado Falcon, and we should be able to find some family parties of Burrowing Owls, while the impressive Great Horned Owl can sometimes be found around the Lodge. We should see a selection of herons with Whistling being the most interesting, and we have a fine chance of connecting with the incomparable Sunbittern.

We will not ignore the forest though. The localized Pale-headed Jacamar is common along the riversides, and we will also be looking for the White-bearded Flycatcher—both of these species are Llanos endemics restricted to these plains that are shared between Colombia and Venezuela. Other species we may see include Hoatzin, Chestnut-vented Conebill, Double-banded Puffbird, Chestnut-vented Chachalaca, Blue-tailed and Versicoloured emeralds, Oriole Blackbird, Red-capped Cardinal, Purple-throated Euphonia, Orange-fronted Yellow Finch, Chestnut-eared Aracari, Yellow-browed Tyrant, and Rufous-fronted Thornbird, which nests commonly around the Lodge.

We will also be along the lookout for mammals; along with the common Capybaras, we may find White-tailed Deer, Crab-eating Fox, and Collared Peccaries. Jaguars are known to be present on the ranch, although a sighting is extremely unlikely. Anacondas are also present, but rare.

Itinerary for Colombia: The Llanos and More

Day 1, Sat, 11 Nov. Arrival in Bogota. Most flights from North America arrive in the evening; transfers will be scheduled from the airport to our hotel in Bogota. Those who wish to adjust for a day or two or visit Bogota attractions, such as the Gold Museum (Museo del Oro), will need to schedule an earlier arrival. Our local ground operator in Bogota can also help to arrange day visits with a local guide to the old colonial town of La Candelaria, Simon Bolivar Central Park, or a cable-car ride up Mount Monserrate with stunning views of the city below. Night in Bogota (8600 feet).

Day 2, Sun, 12 Nov. Tabacal. We will depart early for a full day of birding at Tabacal, which is about an hour-and-a-half drive from our hotel in Bogota. We'll spend all morning birding here. We plan on lunching in the small town below the site and then making a stop at Jardin Encantado for their dazzling hummingbird display. Species we hope to find at Tabacal include Bar-crested Antshrike, Spectacled Parrotlet, Jet, White-bellied, Dusky, and Blue-lored antbirds, Gray-throated Warbler, Stripe-breasted Spinetail, Rusty-breasted Antpitta, Speckle-breasted Wren (the endemic columbianus subspecies), White-bearded Manakin, and a host of commoner lowland species. At the Jardin Encantado we will focus on the endemic Indigo-capped Hummingbird and localized Gorgeted Woodstar, but will also hope to find White-vented Plumeleteer, Rufous-tailed Hummingbird, Green Hermit, Black-throated Mango, Red-billed Emerald, and three species of violetears, among others. Night in Bogota.

Day 3, Mon, 13 Nov. Bogota to Juan Solito Lodge (via Yopal). We will depart Bogota on the first available morning flight to Yopal. Later, we will have a fairly long (six hours) birding drive (with a boat ride) to our lodge from Yopal. On the way, we'll make stops for Jabiru, Scarlet Ibis, Whistling Heron, Oriole Blackbirds, and a few Burrowing Owls we are likely to encounter. We will have a packed lunch and arrive at the lodge in the early evening. Night at Juan Solito Lodge.

Day 4, Tue, 14 Nov. Boat and Jeep Safari on Llanos. A full birding day on the llanos. We will have a boat safari in the morning (roughly 6-10 a.m.) in search of Hoatzin, Pale-headed Jacamar, and Chestnut-eared Aracari, while in the afternoon (3-6:30 p.m.) we'll take a jeep safari across the llanos plains looking for Orinoco Goose, White-bearded Flycatcher, Sharp-tailed Ibis, Maguari Stork, Horned Screamer, and the cuddly Capybara. We will also do some nightbirding searching for Band-tailed Nightjar, Nacunda Nighthawk, and maybe a Common Potoo. Night at Juan Solito Lodge.

The Llanos are home to the beautiful Orinoco Goose. This pair was seen on a recent Field Guides tour. Photograph by guide Richard Webster.

Day 5, Wed, 15 Nov. Cascabel. Today is a long birding day; we'll drive up to Cascabel for the extremely difficult Crestless Curassow, but also Wire-tailed Manakin, and Amazonian Black-Tyrant; all day out with early breakfast and lunch at ranch house, El Hato. Night at Juan Solito Lodge.

Day 6, Thu, 16 Nov. Return to Yopal and Bogota. Today is mainly a travel day—with birding stops—back to Yopal. We'll take a mid-to-late afternoon flight to Bogota. Night in Bogota.

Day 7, Fri, 17 Nov. Chicaque Natural Park. The theme of early morning birding starts will continue with a slightly earlier departure today. Chicaque is only an hour from Bogota, but we will want to get there early. Once at the site, we will bird the trail down to the cabins (steep; good traction shoes and a walking stick are advised), and then take a truck back to the top in the early afternoon. We'll return to the hotel around 4:00 p.m. Chicaque holds an outstanding selection of high Andean and upper foothill birds.

Starting along the entrance road and around the car park, we'll be looking for Pale-naped and Moustached brushfinches and Andean-Pygmy Owl. After a quick look at the feeders, which attract the near-endemic Golden-bellied Starfrontlet, along with Glowing Puffleg, Tourmaline Sunangel, Mountain Velvetbreast, and White-bellied Woodstar, we'll bird slowly down through the forest where, as we drop in elevation, the species composition changes. Species we may possibly encounter include Gray-browed and Chestnut-capped brushfinches, Black-eared, Black-capped, Superciliaried, and Oleaginous hemispinguses, Cinnamon and Rufous-breasted flycatchers, Andean Toucanet (of the albivitta form, which is sometimes split as White-throated Toucanet), Lachrymose Mountain-Tanager, Ashy-headed Tyrannulet, Ash-browed Spinetail, Blackish Tapaculo, Rufous-browed and Blue-backed cone-bills, Variegated Bristle-Tyrant, a selection of tanagers including Flame-faced, Rufous-tailed Tyrant, Striped Treehunter, Brown-billed Scythebill, and Chestnut-crowned Antpitta—to name a few! Night in Bogota.

Day 8, Sat, 18 Nov. Laguna Pedro Palo. We'll leave early this morning for Pedro Palo, where we'll spend the morning birding and have lunch nearby. Our main focus at Pedro Palo will be the endemic Turquoise Dacnis and Black Inca, but we will be on the lookout for Stripe-breasted Spinetail, Moustached Brushfinch, Rufous-naped Greenlet, Olivaceous Piculet, Buff-fronted Foliage-gleaner, and Metallic-green Tanager. We'll return to Bogota in the late afternoon, arriving in time to rest and reorganize before our farewell dinner. Participants flying home today may choose to book flights departing near midnight but will still have a room for showering before the overnight flight. Night in Bogota or on the flight home.

Day 9, Sun, 19 Nov. Departure. International flights to the US generally depart in the morning.

About Your Guide

Jesse Fagan (a.k.a. the Motmot or just “Mot”) has been passionate about birds since his teens, when he had an encounter with a flying Pileated Woodpecker. He has birded throughout the United States, including spending seven years in Texas, and since 1995 has been birding and for a time living in northern Central America. He is currently in the final stages of completing a field guide to the region (which will include the countries of Guatemala, El Salvador, Honduras, and Belize).

In addition, Mot has birded in or led tours to Mexico, Costa Rica, Panama, Colombia, Ecuador, Venezuela, Peru, Brazil, Australia, New Zealand, Spain, Sweden, France, Morocco, and Madagascar. He also enjoys leading many of the Field Guides tours in the Caribbean. He likes to think he can bird anywhere at any time and still show you the birds, but most importantly, a good time. Jesse holds a B.S. and an M.S. in mathematics from Texas Tech University. He is currently living in Lima, Peru.

“Jesse is a fantastic guide. He really knows calls, and he is infinitely patient in getting everyone on the difficult birds, fun to be with.” L.F., Bogota, Magdalena Valley & Santa Marta.

Other Things You Need to Know

TOUR MANAGER: The manager for this tour is Caroline Lewis. Caroline will be happy to assist you in preparing for the tour. If you have any questions, please don't hesitate to call her!

ACCOMMODATIONS: In Bogota, we will be staying in a very comfortable hotel with all the modern conveniences (hot water, mini-bar, Wi-Fi, etc.). The hotel also has a restaurant and is within walking distance of several other restaurants, a supermarket, and shopping. It is about a 30-minute taxi ride from the airport.

In the Llanos, our lodge is located on the 16,000 hectare Hato La Aurora Reserve. There are seven rooms, all with private bathrooms (with unheated water). The traditional structure of the building with a palm roof is designed to keep it cool (there is no air conditioning). Given the remote location, the lodge offers some great wildlife viewing especially for birds, but also caiman, wild pigs, deer, capybara, anteaters and even jaguar. You'll get a feel for the way of life in the llanos, too, with its distinctive traditional music, food and cowboy way of life.

A NOTE ON ALTITUDE: Our highest elevation will be around 10,000 feet (3,050 meters) above Bogota, on the day we visit Chingaza NP. Bogota itself sits at 8,660 feet (2,640 meters), so you may experience some elevation discomfort on your first evening or first day of birding. However, we'll go slowly, with short walks from the vehicle and at a birding pace. We spend several nights in Bogota, so you should acclimatize rapidly. You should bring appropriate medication if you think you will have problems with the altitude; consult your physician.

The Llanos portion of the tour is at or near sea level.

DOCUMENTS: A current passport valid for at least six months beyond the date of your return is necessary for US citizens to enter Colombia. If you are not a US citizen, please check with the Colombian consulate nearest you for entry requirements. Information about consulates and entry requirements is generally available online or you can contact us and we will be happy to look this up for you. Passports should have an adequate number of blank pages for the entire journey. Some countries require a blank page for their stamp and as a precaution it is best to have one blank page per country you will visit or transit.

AIR ARRANGEMENTS: You can arrange your flights to arrive in Bogota anytime on November 11th. We encourage you to arrive a day early if possible. If you wish to come early, we would be happy to help with extra arrangements. Early arrival provides insurance against you or your luggage being delayed, time to become accustomed to the elevation of over 8,600', and the opportunity to visit such attractions as the Gold Museum. On November 18th, you can plan to depart from Bogota in the late evening or any time on November 19th. A room will be provided for the night of the 18th since most flights depart after midnight.

Field Guides is a full service travel agency and your tour manager will be happy to assist you with flights to join this tour. Field Guides does not charge a service fee for these services to clients booking a tour. However, we understand that tech-savvy clients often prefer to shop online or that you may wish to use mileage to purchase tickets. Regardless of which method you choose, your tour manager will be happy to provide assistance regarding ticket prices and schedules, along with rental cars and extra hotel nights as needed.

Please be sure to check with your tour manager prior to purchasing your ticket to make sure the flights you have chosen will work well with the tour itinerary and that the tour is sufficiently subscribed to operate. Once purchased, most airline tickets are non-refundable and carry a penalty to change. Field Guides cannot be responsible for these fees.

Also, it is imperative that we receive a copy of your comprehensive flight itinerary—including any and all flights not covered in the tour fee—so that we may track you in the event of missed connections, delays, or other mishaps.

LUGGAGE: Please limit your luggage to one medium-sized suitcase/duffel and carry-on. Also, be aware that many airlines have recently modified their luggage policies and are charging additional fees for checked bags. Updates could easily occur before your departure, so you may wish to contact your airline to verify the policy. Additional charges for bags on any flights, whether these are covered by the tour fee or not, will be the client's responsibility.

TOUR INCLUSIONS/EXCLUSIONS: The tour fee is $4675 for one person in double occupancy from Bogota. It includes all lodging from Day 1 through Day 9, all meals from breakfast on Day 2 through dinner on day 8 (our last meal as a group), the flights within Colombia (Bogota/Yopal and Yopal/Bogota), all ground transportation, entrance fees, and the guide services of the tour leader. Tipping at group meals and for drivers, porters, and local guides is included in your tour fee and will be handled for the group by your Field Guides leader(s). However, if you would like to recognize your Field Guides leader(s) or any local guide(s) for exceptional service, it is entirely appropriate to tip. We emphasize that such tips are optional and not expected.

The above fee does not include your airfare to and from Colombia, airport taxes, visa fees, any checked or carry-on baggage charges imposed by the airlines, any alcoholic beverages, optional tips to local drivers, phone calls, laundry, or other items of a personal nature.

The single supplement for the tour is $350. If you do not have a roommate but wish to share, we will try to pair you with a roommate from the tour; but if none is available, you will be billed for the single supplement. Our tour fees are based on double occupancy; one-half the cost of a double room is priced into the tour fee. The single supplement is calculated by taking the actual cost of a single room and subtracting one-half the cost of a double room (plus any applicable taxes).

TOUR REGISTRATION: To register for this tour, complete the Registration/Release and Indemnity form and return it with a deposit of $470 per person. If registering by phone, a deposit must be received within fourteen days, or the space will be released. Full payment of the tour fee is due 120 days prior to departure, or by July 14, 2017. We will bill you for the final payment at either 120 days or when the tour has reached sufficient subscription to operate, whichever date comes later. Since the cost of your trip insurance and airline tickets is generally non-refundable, please do not finalize these purchases until you have received final billing for the tour or have been advised that the tour is sufficiently subscribed to operate by your tour manager.

SMOKING: Almost all of our clients prefer a smoke-free environment. If you smoke, please be sensitive to the group and refrain from smoking at meals, in vehicles, and in proximity to the group on trails and elsewhere.

CANCELLATION POLICY: Refund of deposit and payment, less $100 handling fee, will be made if cancellation is received up to 120 days before departure. If cancellation occurs between 119 and 70 days before the departure date, 50% of the tour fee is refundable. Thereafter, all deposits and payments are not refundable.

This policy only applies to payments made to Field Guides for tour (and any services included in those fees). Airline tickets not included in the tour fee and purchased separately often carry penalties for cancellation or change, or are sometimes totally non-refundable. Additionally, if you take out trip insurance the cost of the insurance is not refundable so it is best to purchase the policy just prior to making full payment for the tour or at the time you purchase airline tickets, depending upon the airlines restrictions.

The right is reserved to cancel any tour prior to departure, in which case full refund will constitute full settlement to the passenger. The right is reserved to substitute in case of emergency another guide for the original one.

TRIP CANCELLATION & MEDICAL EMERGENCY INSURANCE: We strongly recommend you consider purchasing trip cancellation (including medical emergency) insurance to cover your investment in case of injury or illness to you or your family prior to or during a trip. Because we must remit early (and substantial) tour deposits to our suppliers, we cannot offer any refund when cancellation occurs within 70 days of departure, and only a partial refund from 70 to 119 days prior to departure (see CANCELLATION POLICY). In addition, the Department of State strongly urges Americans to consult with their medical insurance company prior to traveling abroad to confirm whether their policy applies overseas and if it will cover emergency expenses such as a medical evacuation. US medical insurance plans seldom cover health costs incurred outside the United States unless supplemental coverage is purchased. Furthermore, US Medicare and Medicaid programs do not provide payment for medical services outside the United States.

When making a decision regarding health insurance, Americans should consider that many foreign doctors and hospitals require payment in cash prior to providing service and that a medical evacuation to the United States may cost well in excess of $50,000. Uninsured travelers who require medical care overseas often face extreme difficulties. When consulting with your insurer prior to your trip, please ascertain whether payment will be made to the overseas healthcare provider or whether you will be reimbursed later for expenses that you incur.

US citizens will receive from us a brochure regarding optional tour cancellation/emergency medical insurance. Our agent, CSA, will insure for trip cancellation and interruption, medical coverage, travel delay, baggage loss and delay, 24-hour accident protection, and emergency medical transportation. If you purchase the insurance when making final payment for the tour, and cover all non-refundable parts of the trip (including any non-refundable flights), pre-existing conditions are covered. The CSA brochure includes a contact number; you may also purchase your CSA policy on-line by visiting our website at www.fieldguides.com/travelinsurance.htm and clicking the link to CSA. Please note, once the insurance is purchased it is non-refundable, so please check with your tour manager prior to making the purchase to assure the tour will operate as scheduled. Citizens of other countries are urged to consult their insurance broker.

RESPONSIBILITY: For and in consideration of the opportunity to participate in the tour, each tour participant and each parent or legal guardian of a tour participant who is under 18 agrees to release, indemnify, and hold harmless Field Guides Incorporated, its agents, servants, employees, shareholders, officers, directors, attorneys, and contractors as more fully set forth in the Release and Indemnity Agreement on the reverse side of the registration form. Field Guides Incorporated acts only as an agent for the passenger in regard to travel, whether by railroad, motorcar, motorcoach, boat, airplane, or other means, and assumes no liability for injury, damage, loss, accident, delay, or irregularity caused by defect in such vehicles or for any reason whatsoever, including the acts, defaults, or bankruptcies of any company or person engaged in conveying the passenger or in carrying out the arrangements of the tour. Field Guides Incorporated accepts no responsibility for losses or additional expenses due to delay or changes in air or other services, sickness, weather, strike, war, quarantine, or other causes. The tour participant shall bear all such losses and expenses. Field Guides Incorporated reserves the right to substitute hotels of similar category for those indicated and to make any changes in the itinerary where deemed necessary or caused by changes in air schedules. Field Guides Incorporated reserves the right to decline to accept or to retain any person as a member of any tour. Baggage is at owner's risk entirely.

Participants should be in good health and should consult a physician before undertaking a tour. If you have questions about the physical requirements of a tour, please contact our office for further information. Participants should prepare for the tour by reading the detailed itinerary, the information bulletin, and other pertinent matter provided by Field Guides. Each participant is responsible for bringing appropriate clothing and equipment as recommended in our bulletins.

THE RECEIPT OF YOUR TOUR DEPOSIT SHALL BE DEEMED TO BE CONSENT TO THE ABOVE CONDITIONS. EACH TOUR PARTICIPANT AND EACH PARENT OR LEGAL GUARDIAN OF A TOUR PARTICIPANT WHO IS UNDER 18 SHALL SIGN AND DELIVER THE RELEASE AND INDEMNITY AGREEMENT AT THE TIME OF REGISTRATION.
