We include here information for those interested in the 2027 Field Guides France's Loire Valley: Birds, Chateaux and Wine tour:

- a general introduction to the tour
- a description of the birding areas to be visited on the tour
- an abbreviated daily itinerary with some indication of the nature of each day's birding outings

These additional materials will be made available to those who register for the tour:

- an annotated list of the birds recorded on a previous year's Field Guides trip to the area, with comments by guide(s) on notable species or sightings (may be downloaded from our website)
- a detailed information bulletin with important logistical information and answers to questions regarding accommodations, air arrangements, clothing, currency, customs and immigration, documents, health precautions, and personal items
- a Field Guides checklist for preparing for and keeping track of the birds we see on the tour
- after the conclusion of the tour, a list of birds seen on the tour

French novelist Gustave Flaubert once described the Loire as "the most sensual river in France," and that description is still apt today. Europe's only "wild" river — the only one without a lock or weir or dam anywhere along its length — the Loire is France's longest waterway, winding northward and westward from the Massif Central through the flat, fertile lowlands of central France to the Atlantic.

Our tour concentrates on the "Middle Loire", famous for its spectacular chateaux, which have housed the country's royalty, the rich, and famous since the Middle Ages. The Loire Valley is also famous for its wines; it's France's third-largest wine-producing region, with 100 appellations from its source to the sea. We'll intersect with some of its best-known regions, and we'll have the chance to sample Chinon, Vouvray, Sancerre, Pouilly-Fumé, and more.

During the time of our tour, the Loire runs low and sedate, studded with sand and gravel bars that provide protected nesting areas for Yellow-legged, Black-headed and Mediterranean gulls, Little Ringed Plovers, and Common Sandpipers. The mixed deciduous forests along its fringes are home to Eurasian Green, Great Spotted and Middle Spotted woodpeckers, Song and Mistle thrushes, Great, Crested, Marsh, Eurasian Blue, and Long-tailed tits, and many others.

In scattered grasslands among the farm fields and vineyards, we'll look for Corn Bunting, Eurasian Skylark, European Stonechat, Eurasian Thick-knee, Montagu's Harrier, and — if we're very lucky — some of the region's last remaining pairs of Little Bustard. We'll spend time in the Sologne and Brenne, two regions where hundreds of small lakes, carved from the landscape by industrious local residents more than six centuries ago, shelter Great Crested, Eared, and Little grebes, Tufted Duck and Common Pochard. Egrets and herons stalk the lake margins while Eurasian Golden Orioles and Common Nightingales chortle from surrounding vegetation, and Whiskered Terns zoom back and forth overhead.

We'll spend our mornings in the field and shift our attention to chateaux, abbeys, and vineyards on most afternoons. Two comfortable hotels and relatively short drives should make for a pleasant and relaxing holiday!

We want to be sure you are on the right tour! Below is a description of the physical requirements of the tour. If you are concerned about the difficulty, please contact us about this and be sure to fully explain your concerns. We want to make sure you have a wonderful time with us, so if you are uncomfortable with the requirements, just let us know and we can help you find a better fitting tour! Field Guides will not charge you a change or cancellation fee if you opt out within 10 days of depositing.

Physical requirements of this tour

- TRAILS & WALKING: Moderate amounts of rather easy walking (up to 3 miles per day), some of it on roads, some on good trails. Most trails are flat, but a few have steeper sections, especially near river edges. To visit all areas of the various chateaux requires an ability to climb steps.
- POTENTIAL CHALLENGES: We do spend a bit of time standing to watch birds on this tour; a small folding stool can provide relief as needed. Most roads are paved, but access to some spots entails travel along unpaved tracks that may be bumpy and/or dusty.
- PACE: On some days, there will be optional pre-breakfast outings from the lodgings (generally starting at 6:00, though occasionally earlier), with breakfasts served as late as 8:00 a.m. After a picnic or café lunch, on most days, we'll shift focus to vineyards or chateaux.
- WEATHER: Early summer weather in the Loire Valley is generally pleasant, though it can be quite chilly if it rains. Temperatures could range from the low 50s to the high 70s F. Rain showers are a possibility.
- VEHICLE SEATING: So that each participant has equal opportunity during our travel, we employ a seat rotation system on all tours. Participants will need to be flexible enough to maneuver to the back of the vehicle on occasion. Those who experience motion sickness will need to bring adequate medication for the duration of the tour, as we are not able to reserve forward seats for medical conditions.

- BATHROOM BREAKS: Whenever possible, we use modern, indoor restrooms, but public restrooms can be surprisingly scarce and participants who would like to make a comfort stop in nature may do so in many of the locations we visit.
- OPTING OUT: Where we are staying multiple days in the same lodging, participants can easily opt to sit out a day or sometimes a half-day. This will not be possible on days when we are changing locations.

If you are uncertain about whether this tour is a good match for your abilities, please don't hesitate to contact our office; if they cannot directly answer your queries, they will put you in touch with one of the guides.

About the Birding Areas

The “Middle” Loire Valley, which stretches from Orleans in the east to Angers in the west, is home to the greatest concentration of the river's famous chateaux. While much of the surrounding countryside is covered with the ubiquitous vineyards or other agricultural crops, a patchwork of other habitats – including stands of planted poplars, pine plantations, grassy pastures, ancient hedgerows and scrubby, overgrown fields – is interspersed throughout. Many species common to lowland France are found here. Mixed woodland should hold Eurasian Golden-Oriole, Eurasian Jay, European Goldfinch, Common Chaffinch, Great, Eurasian Blue, and Long-tailed tits, and dozens of purring European Turtle-Doves. Cirl Buntings, Common Whitethroats, and Common Nightingales will chortle from scruffy hedgerows, while Black Redstarts, European Stonechats, and Red-backed Shrikes hunt from tall weeds and shrub tops, and Eurasian Sparrowhawks and Common Kestrels hunt the field edges. Pine plantations should yield Crested Tit, Western Bonelli's Warbler, and Firecrest, while older forests may hold Eurasian Bullfinch, Wood Warbler, and Hawfinch. Even urban areas should yield Eurasian Magpies, Eurasian Blackbirds, Common House-Martins and screaming flocks of Common Swifts.

The Loire River, which forms the backbone of the valley, runs roughly southwestward towards the Atlantic between Orleans and Angers. During the time of our tour, the river and its major regional tributaries (the Cher, the Vienne and the Indre) run shallow and slow, their placid currents interrupted by scattered gravel bars. These provide protected nesting areas for Black-headed, Yellow-legged, and Mediterranean gulls, Common and Little terns, Eurasian Thick-knee, Little Ringed Plover, and Common Sandpiper. Bank Swallows burrow in sandy banks, Common House-Martins and Barn Swallows nest under the bridges, and Cattle and Little egrets stalk the shallow edges.

The Sologne is a vast mosaic of heath, forest, marshland and scattered farmland, stretched over more than 1900 square miles on the eastern edge of the “Middle Loire”. Our explorations will focus on the area's western edge, where a network of ponds riddle the landscape. Although these ponds seem natural, with well-established vegetation and a myriad of birds in and around them, they were actually all man-made, centuries ago, in an attempt to drain the previously extensive swamplands – both for disease control, and to concentrate (and make it easier to capture) fish and waterfowl. The lakes provide important habitat for a variety of wading birds and waterfowl, including Gray and Purple herons, Great and Little egrets, Common Pochard and Tufted Duck, Great Crested, Eared, and Little grebes, and Eurasian Coot, while Whiskered Terns hover over the water and Reed Buntings sing challenges from the weedy edges.

The forests here are among the largest and oldest in this part of France, and the birdlife is correspondingly rich. Raptors abound here, with Short-toed Snake-Eagle, European Honey-Buzzard, Eurasian Sparrowhawk, and Northern Goshawk (rare) all breeding in the area. The woodlands may yield Song Thrush, Eurasian Bullfinch, Eurasian Nuthatch, Spotted Flycatcher, and Blackcap, and several species of woodpecker are possible.

Like the Sologne, the landscape of the Brenne is studded with thousands of scattered, man-made ponds. Unlike that more northerly region, though, the Brenne's forests are generally short and somewhat depauperate, limited by the poor nutrients in its sandy soil. The resulting mix of scrub and grassland contains plant species more typical of areas further south in France, as is the case with a few of the birds we'll look for here. The plentiful ponds should give us more opportunities to enjoy the region's herons, egrets and gulls, plus the chance to connect with the handsome Red-crested Pochard and small numbers of shorebirds, possibly including Northern Lapwing, Black-winged Stilt, or Eurasian Curlew. Marshy pond edges should hold Cetti's, Eurasian Reed- and Sedge (and, if we're very lucky, Savi's or Great Reed) warblers, while brushy hedgerows bustle with Common Nightingale, Common Whitethroat, and Melodious Warbler. This region offers the best chance for Black Kites and the rare Black Stork.

Itinerary for France's Loire Valley: Birds, Chateaux & Wine

Days 1-2, Thu-Fri, 3-4 Jun. Flights to Paris, transfer to Chinon. Most flights depart the US on the evening of Day 1, arriving at Paris Charles de Gaulle Airport on the following morning. Your guide will meet you at 1:30 p.m. on Day 2 in Terminal 2, just outside the entrance to the Sheraton hotel, by the escalators to the train station. Once gathered, we'll depart for Chinon, which is about a 4-hour drive away depending on traffic. We'll undoubtedly make a stop or two en route for restrooms, so be sure to have your binoculars handy in case we find something interesting along the way. After checking in to our hotel, we'll head to dinner, where we'll discuss our plans for the next few days. Night in Chinon.

Day 3, Sat, 5 Jun. Morning birding around Chinon, afternoon visit to Fontevraud Abbey. We'll meet for a 7:00 a.m. breakfast (after an optional pre-breakfast outing, for those who are interested), and then head out for a morning of birding west of town. The area surrounding Chinon is a mix of poplar groves and vineyards, with agricultural fields, scrubby growth and forest remnants interspersed – and, of course, the nearby Vienne and Loire rivers flowing past. There should be plenty to look for, with roving bands of tits (Great, Eurasian Blue, and Long-tailed), woodpeckers (Great Spotted and Eurasian Green), Eurasian Golden-Oriole, Common Chaffinch, Common Chiffchaff and purring Eurasian Turtle-Doves taking center stage. We'll make a series of short walks from our vehicles, walking along flat roads. Late in the morning, we'll make a stop above the handsome town of Candes, where we'll check for the spectacular Lizard and Fragrant orchids and look out over the confluence of the Loire and Vienne rivers.

Then we'll head on to Fontevraud, where we'll have lunch before visiting the immense Fontevraud Abbey. Governed by a succession of aristocratic abbesses for nearly 700 years, this was once among the largest abbeys in France. Among its treasures are the 16th-century chapter house paintings and painted effigies of four of the Plantagenets (including Richard the Lion-hearted) as well as an extraordinary kitchen smokehouse. We'll take a guided tour with a local historian who will explain the site and its significance. Black Redstarts and European Serins are regular here, and Common House-Martins nest under the eaves of many buildings. Night in Chinon.

Day 4, Sun, 6 Jun. Pre-breakfast outing to Meron, morning birding around Chinon, afternoon visit to the vineyard of Pierre and Bertrand Couly. We'll offer an early morning outing to an area about 30 minutes south of Chinon before breakfast this morning, to look for some very special birds attracted to the dry agricultural lands there. The site is not an attractive one – dominated as it is by a huge industrial estate built on a former Nazi military base – but the birds don't seem to mind. Possibilities include Eurasian Skylark, Corn Bunting, European Stonechat, Red-legged Partridge, Eurasian Thick-knee, Red-backed Shrike, Short-toed Snake-Eagle, Hen, and Eurasian Marsh-harriers, and (if we're very lucky) Little Bustard. We'll return to our hotel for a late breakfast, then will spend the rest of our morning walking along a wooded track. This afternoon, we'll visit the Pierre and Bertrand Couly winery, where we'll have a guided walking tour of the vineyards (with an explanation of the importance of terroir), a visit to the wine-making chais, and a tasting of some of their wines (their specialty is Chinon), accompanied by regional specialties. Night in Chinon.

*Short-toed Treecreeper is a resident of forested tracts that we'll watch for in the pine woods east of Chinon.

Day 5, Mon, 7 Jun. Morning birding around Chinon, afternoon visit to Villandry. After breakfast today, we'll head east of Chinon to visit a more extensive area of forest, one with a significant pine component. Many wide dirt tracks run through the trees, and we'll walk along several of these, watching for Eurasian Nuthatch, Middle and Lesser Spotted woodpeckers, Firecrest, Coal and Crested tits, Short-toed Treecreeper, European Greenfinch, Western Bonelli's Warbler, Tree Pipit, and more. The footing along some of the tracks may be a little rough, so be sure to bring a walking stick today if you use one.

In the afternoon, we'll visit Villandry, one of the last of the great Renaissance chateaux to be built on the Loire. Although the house contains a fine collection of furniture and paintings, Villandry is most famous for its spectacular gardens: a huge, formal kitchen garden at ground level, and a sprawling network of flower gardens built into a hillside overlooking the house. You'll have several hours to explore, aided by audio guides we'll rent at the site. Night in Chinon.

At Chateau Gaudrelle, we'll visit the wine cave, where the wines are aged. Photograph by guide Megan Edwards Crewe.

Day 6, Tue, 8 Jun. Morning birding around Chinon, transfer to Cheverny, via the winery at Chateau Gaudrelle.

Today, we'll transfer to our next hotel near Cour-Cheverny. But first, we'll bird our way north through Tours, crossing the Loire River to its north bank, where we'll visit Chateau Gaudrelle, a winery renowned for its Chenin Blanc varieties. Here, we'll have a short guided tour of the winery's fascinating cave system (where the wines are made and aged), followed by a lunch at a nearby bistro where we will sample a few of the wines from the touraine region of the Loire.

Later in the afternoon, we'll wend our way eastwards, stopping in the town of Chamont-sur-Loire to overlook the Loire River. Sandbars here provide protected nesting sites for a number of species, including Black-headed, Mediterranean and Yellow-legged gulls, Common and Little terns, Little Ringed Plover, and Common Sandpiper. From there, it's about 30 minutes to our hotel. Night at Le Prieuré de Boulogne Hotel.

Day 7, Wed, 9 Jun. Morning birding grasslands near Chabris/Varennes-sur-Fouzon, afternoon visit to Chenonceau. This morning, we'll head south to Etang de l'Arche, situated in an agricultural area about 30 minutes south of Cour-Cheverny. an area bounded by the Cher River and the towns of Chabris and Varennes-sur-Fouzon. The grasslands and dry, fallow fields in this area are home to a declining suite of birds, including another small population of Little Bustards, Eurasian Skylark, European Stonechat, Yellowhammer, and Eurasian Thick-knee, with raptors including Common Kestrel and Common Buzzard present in good numbers.

Later in the morning, we'll start our way towards the fabulous Chenonceau, surely one of the prettiest of the Loire Valley's chateaux, for a guided tour with a local historian. The graceful Chenonceau straddles the River Cher, with the house on the north bank, and two long galleries – which once held magnificent feasts and balls – stretching across the river itself. Spared the terror and destruction of the French Revolution, thanks to the intervention of sympathetic local villagers, the house still contains much of its original furniture and furnishings. Night at Le Prieuré de Boulogne Hotel.

Day 8, Thu, 10 Jun. La Brenne. Today, we'll spend a full day in the Brenne, a Regional Nature Park located about 90 minutes south of our hotel. The region is riddled with small lakes (created hundreds of years ago by the region's human residents), which hold a variety of waterfowl, shorebirds, terns and wading birds – possibly including the regionally rare

Red-crested Pochard. Some largely southern birds edge as far north as this part of France, and we have our best chance of such species as Savi's Warbler, Eurasian Hoopoe, Black Kite, and Black-winged Stilt. We'll spend the day exploring the northern part of this extensive park, making a series of walks from our vehicles and stopping for lunch at a local auberge. For those who choose to stay behind today, the magnificent chateau of Cheverny is only a half mile or so from our hotel. Night at Le Prieuré de Boulogne Hotel.

*The lakes of La Brenne and Sologne will be full of waterbirds such as Common Pochard.

Day 9, Fri, 11 Jun. Morning birding at ponds of western Sologne, afternoon visit to Chambord. This morning, we'll head east, to the western edges of the Sologne. Our target here is a string of ponds scattered among fields and forest; most are only visible from road edges, but we'll make a stop at the Etang de Beaumont, a 35-hectare reserve with a comfortable viewing blind and Etang de Malzone, an even larger reserve with several viewing areas. The region's many ponds attract a host of waterbirds, including Common Pochard, Tufted Duck, Purple Heron, Great Crested, Eared and Little grebes, Common Moorhen and Eurasian Coot, while Whiskered Tern and Osprey hunt overhead, and Eurasian Reed-Warblers flit through waterside vegetation. The surrounding forests may yield Common Cuckoo, Tree Pipit, Middle Spotted Woodpecker, European Robin, Song Thrush, and Hawfinch.

After lunch, we'll move on to Chambord, the largest of the Loire's chateaux, with 440 rooms that could accommodate a staggering 2000 people! Its more than 80 flights of stairs include an intriguing double spiral designed by Leonardo da Vinci. Conceived by King Francois I, the house took 1800 workers some 28 years to build – and the monarch stayed there a grand total of 72 days. With audio guides, we'll explore those parts of the massive building which are open to the public, including many rooms restored to their former splendor. Night at Le Prieuré de Boulogne Hotel.

Day 10, Sat, 12 Jun. Morning birding at Etang de l'Arche, afternoon transfer to Paris. We'll have one final morning in the western Sologne, birding a lovely wooded track near the hamlet of Marcilly-en-Gault. Woodland species including European Bullfinch, Wood Warbler, Marsh Tit, and Black and Lesser Spotted woodpeckers are possible, and we'll keep an ear out for the amazing song of the Common Nightingale. After lunch in Cour-Cheverny, we'll head to our hotel near Charles de Gaulle Airport for our final dinner. The drive should take about 3 hours. Night at Marriott Roissy.

Day 11, Sun, 13 Jun. Departure from France. You may schedule your departure for any time today. Bon voyage!

About Your Guides

Marcelo Padua was born in Belem at the mouth of the Amazon River. Growing up he spent his free time at his uncle's farm in an Amazon rainforest reserve observing everything from insects to mammals and birds. Marcelo began studying English at an early age and attended high school in Middletown, Pennsylvania, in a student-exchange program. He is remarkably fluent and even taught English for a couple of years back home in Brazil.

Following university in Rio de Janeiro, Marcelo transferred to law school in Cuiaba, but working as an English-speaking naturalist guide during school holidays soon made it clear to him that birding was much more than a hobby! With just a year to go until his bar exam, he turned his back on the law to hang out his shingle as a birding guide.

He met Bret Whitney in 2005 and embarked on a full-time guiding career with Field Guides in 2010. With his great sense of humor, impeccable organizational skills, and love of seeing birds, Marcelo has quickly become a reference for birding in Brazil, spending over 200 days each year in the field. A warning: Watch out if he sees displaying manakins of any kind! Marcelo makes his nest at the crossroads of the Pantanal and the Amazon in Cuiaba with his wife, Ana.

*"Marcelo Padua has incredible eyes, ears, and memory—the best birding (and mammals) guide I have ever experienced. His ability to instantly hear distant birds and recognize birds in flight and their movements in the forest was amazing. He gave us 110% in skill, patience, and kindness."
D. H. Jaguar Spotting*
